Community Futures Revelstoke and the City of Revelstoke Launch Public Survey to Shape “Revy Own” Achievable Homeownership Program

Revelstoke, BC - Community Futures Revelstoke and the City of Revelstoke have launched a community survey to support the development of Revy Own, a new affordable homeownership program designed for Revelstoke’s workforce and long-term residents.

The survey will gather information about potential buyers’ employment, household, and financial situations. The results will guide program eligibility rules, resale price caps, and housing design.

“This survey is an important next step in shaping Revy Own,” said Kevin Dorrius, General Manager of Community Futures Revelstoke. “By hearing directly from local residents, we can make sure this program reflects actual housing needs for the people who work and live here.”

The City of Revelstoke has committed municipally owned land to support the first phases of Revy Own, underscoring Council’s commitment to addressing the community’s housing challenges. “The City is proud to partner with Community Futures on this important initiative.” Mayor Gary Sulz, City of Revelstoke. “Housing affordability is a top priority for our community, and this program will help keep Revelstoke livable and sustainable for the people who contribute every day to our city’s vibrancy.”
